

Aims and Outcomes

Program participants will:

Understand the factors that contribute to who they are

Name "the facts" about them

Explain their physical characteristics

Explain the type of personality they have

Determine things they do independently and skills they would like to improve

Identify the things they can do alone

Identify the things they can do with family and friends

Identify the things they could learn to do better

Understand their abilities and strengths

Define a special talent

Name what they are good at or like to do

Identify what their special talent is or might be

Determine their dreams for the future

Define what a dream is

Identify their wildest dream

List their dreams for the future

Identify the steps to achieving their dreams

Understand the roles of their family

List the members that can make up a family

Name the members of their family

Complete their family tree

Define what each member of their family contribute to one another

Understand their values

Define a value

Give examples of values

Match value words to value explanations

Identify the values of their family

Identify the people who are special to them

Name the characteristics of a special person

List the types of people that may be a special person

Name the people special to them

Complete the network hand

Understand what a special occasions is

Explain what a special occasion is

List examples of special occasions

Explain why special occasions are important

Express the importance of special occasions